"Welcome to The Pits"

Editorial - D.C.J.

Never underestimate the power of the pen. The one article by Peter Lucas, columnist of the Boston Herald American, has dropped on New Bedford like a deluge of ice cold water. It has focused attention that has been dissipated among tens of thousands of individual minds. The people of New Bedford see their city through the first glance and snap judgement of one mind and they are aroused as never before to the faults that they know exist. True, this is a one sided view aimed at the unsightly and the ugly. Why not? If this is a first impression, it's a picture of the surface. New Bedford is not unique. Boston, New York, Providence, you name any city larger or smaller, and you could write the same article. There is decay, there is ugliness, unsightly scars. Cities are a reflection of the people who live there and not all people are beautiful. A second glance is needed to find any hope. New Bedford has gone through a tremendous upheaval in the last decade. I-195 sliced through from east to west and the connector from north to south. These revealed areas that had long moldered in hidden decay. Look around now and see the new rising out of that quiet rot. It is happening. New office and professional buildings are now building near the entrances to the connector and the nucleus of a whole new city is beginning to appear.

The great disappointment has been the historic district. This restoration of a whole area miraculously preserved by neglect has been a visual delight and a financial failure. The area was designed to be a flourishing small shop concentration with surroundings of historic beauty. Great effort and much public treasure has been poured into this area and it is a resounding dud as many courageous businesses have tried and then moved out to where the people are. The failure could have been foreseen and it could still be reversed. It has been the best thing ever attempted in New Bedford and the most tragic failure. It needs free parking adjoining it and needs free and constant transportation throughout in some imaginative way. It is a shame to waste this wonderful walk into history but wasted it is if no one appears on streets except an occasional tourist in the summer months which is the situation at present.

As for the rest of the blight, it's a legacy of the "Great Society" and all the rest of the hogwash the people of the country have been bribed with for 50 years. Every city has the same. Graffiti is now recognized as an "art" form. Junk and rubbish are now exhibited in modern art museums as well as every street and vacant lot. Drug pushers and prostitutes are simply doing their thing as is their constitutional right. They are among the most protected segment of our population and we have the broken lives of thousand of children to prove it. Turn back the clock to those years before the socialists took political power, New Bedford was a clean and safe and decent place to live. Anyone could walk anywhere at night and not fall over garbage underfoot or be assaulted by human predators.

New Bedford is now debating a larger, more comfortable jail to warehouse its growing criminal population. It would do far better for both criminals and for inhabitants if minor law breakers were sentenced to work programs to clean the city streets and clear away the rubbish from vacant lots not for pay but for punishment to reimburse society for the damage that crime costs to lives and to the quality of life. The dregs of the human species should not be able to wrap themselves in the constitution to protect themselves to ply their destructive trades.

Until this situation is reversed I don't see any return of any city to a clean and desirable place to live. It will simply be a convenient if dirty place to locate a business. People who are able will get out as quickly as possible to live in the suburbs and business will continue to relocate in malls within easy reach of the people who have fled.

fault the city. The surface covered with graffiti and garbage is the "art form" of the protected and the protectee will continue to be offended with its display in both the streets and in the museums of the cities as they flee home to the country as fast as they can go.

LETTERS RECEIVED

Mattapoisett Selectmen received a letter from Pat Sullivan of 17 Water Street expressing her satisfaction with the present lining on Route 6. She stated that Route 6 is much less dangerous for bikers with the new lining.

Two letters were received from Senator William Q. MacLean. The first was in regard to changing Route 6 traffic markings and Senator MacLean requests that a meeting be held to straighten out this problem. The second letter requests a hearing to discuss the relocation of the Department of Public Works' Middleboro office to Taunton.

Selectmen received a letter from John DeCosta of the Florence Eastman Post 280,

The problems of New Bedford are many but are the problems of any city of the "great society". The basic premise that people are not responsible for their actions and that society is not the protectee but the protector has brought about the present condition. Under these conditions, New Bedford is struggling but doing a commendable job of maintaining some semblance of renewal. The odds against success are tremendous and nothing is done overnight. In time, the great failure of the social reformers may become so apparent that something will be done to throw them out of political power. In the meantime don't

Center School 50th Reunion

Nine members of the 1932 ninth grade graduating class at Mattapoisett Center School held a 50th reunion last Wednesday at The Stable in Rochester. There were 26 members of this class and of these 6 are deceased.

Special guests at the reunion and honored also on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary were the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Myers. Mrs. Myers was one of the teachers of this class and Mr. Myers was the minister at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church at that time.

The nine who attended the reunion are: Mrs. Anna (Christ) Reynolds of Alabama, Robert Howard of Clearwater, Florida, who was vice president of the class and acted as master of ceremonies; Mrs. Louise (Sylvia) Hogan of Maryland, John Hillman of Connecticut, John Lomba, Florence (Tinkham) Heuberger, Molly (Hiller) Lewis, Charles (Bill) Morgan and Edward Kinney, all of Mattapoisett.

A good time was had by all and everyone is looking forward to the next reunion.

ORR Junior High Honor Society

On Monday, June 7, thirty-nine students of Old Rochester Regional Junior High School were inducted into the National Junior Honor Society. Mr. Paradis, advisor to the club, welcomed the guests, parents, students, and faculty. Sue John, President, then introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Frank Gifune, who spoke on the relationship between hard work and success.

Kristen Fleming, Secretary, lighted the candle representing character and spoke on this quality. Leadership was symbolized by a purple candle lighted by Monica Mello, Vice President. John Viveiros discussed the importance of service and lit a candle symbolizing this quality. Scholarship and citizenship were spoken on and candles ignited by Kateri Osborne, Treasurer, and Kevin Jackson, respectively.

Then the induction of new members commenced. Present members tapped each inductee from the audience. As each inductee was introduced, he was congratulated by Mrs. LaFleur, signed the Honor Society book, received his pin, and lighted a candle once all inductees had been assembled.

A reception was held in the Home Economics area for the new members and their parents after school. Special thanks are extended to Miss Therrien, Mrs. Santos and Mrs. Harriman for their help in preparing the ceremony.

Written by Kristen Fleming

The 1982 Honor Society inductees are: Leanne Bessette, James Bilodeau, Ellen Brewster, Chris Ann Brum, Suzanne Byron, Mark Evans, Michelle Gayoski, Karen Gracia, Julie Holden, Peter Johnson, Michelle Kirby, Christine Knight, Matthew Knight, Anthony

Letter to The Editor

Regarding "Book Review" by Reverend Paul B. Myers in the June 2nd issue of Presto Press ("The Fate of the Earth" by Jonathan Schell): since no other letters have been forthcoming, I feel I must comment despite my personal high regard for the gentleman and also in spite of the fact that I haven't read the book!

I feel the fine line between a book review and a personal reaction was crossed. That the review was indeed Rev. Myers' personal reaction was underscored by the May 3 issue of "Time" in an article entitled "Second Thoughts on Schell ... after a rush of praise, his antinuclear book draws skepticism".

The Time article points out that the book's first reception was one of respect - but now from such diverse sources as Harper's Editor Michael Kinsley, the New Republic's Max Lerner, the New York Times' John Leonard (and its editorial page) and the Wall Street Journal come skepticism and criticism, recognizing Schell's apparent bottom line that the only important goal is peace and survival at any cost. Quoting Time quoting Max Lerner (of Democratic Liberal fame, certainly no political bedfellow of mine!), "Schell's logic could be used to justify 'certain surrender (through) unilateral disarmament by the West.'" The New York Times: "'The rest of us are left in the real world, stuck with the only available alternative to catastrophe. Deterrence it will have to be.'"

Reverend Myers says th[redacted] toric being thrown back a[redacted] leaders has awakened th[redacted] the demand for an informed emotional, intellectual political response to our 'predicament...." True, but to imply that Schell's solution is the solution of "awakened thoughtful people" is a disservice to those of us who have agonized over our "predicament" and have concluded that the possibility of abandoning democracy is both politically and morally irresponsible.

It is possible to feel as I do and be anti-war, anti-nuclear, anti-proliferation. (I am.) But the first solution that comes along, no matter how popular emotionally, is not necessarily the right one. Did the freeze vote force people to make up their minds too quickly? You can have only the Elysian fields or the Apocalypse - speak now or forever hold your peace? How much study did each voter give to this so-called decision? Time concludes that the best effect Schell's book can have is that it may get people thinking and therefore hopefully finding tougher and more realistic solutions.

So, perhaps, Reverend Myers' Book Review serves the same purpose, and we should all take the fate of the earth seriously enough to read everything we can find, including "Perspective on the Peace Movement" in the June Reader's Digest; "Keeping an Eye on Russia: a Mysterious Event in Sverdlovsk Has Raised Serious Doubts About Arms Treaty Surveillance", New York Times Magazine, November 29, 1981; etc., etc.

Which commits me to reading "The Fate of the Earth", doesn't it?

Sincerely yours,
A.H. Stowell

SALTMARSH ECOLOGY WALK

The saltmarshes surrounding Dartmouth's coastal areas are places of great beauty. They also serve as a safe nursery for many ocean animals. But the habitat of the saltmarsh also harbors unique plants and animals that can withstand the extremes of temperature and change that the saltmarsh is subject to. On Saturday, June 19th, the Children's Museum will have a morning walk in the saltmarsh to see how it forms and study the amazing adaptations of its inhabitants. Open to all ages, the walk is free and starts at 10 a.m.

As part of his slide talk, Tom Benson will bring to life The Classic Yacht Regatta as a wonderful reminder of a past still very much alive and a future full of growing interest in the beautiful, long lived creations of the great yacht designers and builders. He has been a lifelong sailor and was the U.S. manager of the 1980 Observer Singlehanded Transatlantic Race.
